
Multimedia Resources for Academics

LECTURES, SYMPOSIA, WORKSHOPS, etc.

Educators Corner

<http://edcorner.stanford.edu/>

Description from site: “The Stanford Technology Ventures Program (STVP) Educators Corner is a free online archive of entrepreneurship resources for teaching and learning. The mission of the project is to support and encourage faculty around the world who teach entrepreneurship to future scientists and engineers, as well as those in management and other disciplines. The site has been developed by a dynamic team of educators, entrepreneurs, engineers, and designers at the Stanford Technology Ventures Program (STVP).”

- Topics of recorded talks include creativity & innovation, opportunity recognition, product development, marketing & sales, leadership & adversity, social entrepreneurship, career & life balance, team & culture, globalization, and much more.

Harvard University Institute of Politics –Events and Programs

http://ksgaccman.harvard.edu/iop/events_forum_listview.asp

Description from the site: “The Institute of Politics is proud to make available a searchable video archive spanning thirty years of public addresses and panel discussions held in the John F. Kennedy Jr. Forum (formerly the ARCO Forum of Public Affairs). The archive, featuring nearly 1,200 Forum events on politics, policy, culture, and academic life, will provide rich historical content and context to students, researchers, and citizens from around the world.”

MIT World

<http://mitworld.mit.edu/>

Description from site: “MIT World is a free and open site that provides on-demand video of significant public events at MIT.”

Nobel Prize Awards –Event Videos

http://nobelprize.org/award_ceremonies/video-svt/index.html

See videos of award ceremonies back to 1934.

Online Audio and Video Recordings: UC Berkeley Lectures & Events

(Media Resources Center, Moffat Library)

<http://www.lib.berkeley.edu/MRC/audiofiles.html>

A wide range of historical audio and video resources including poetry readings from Robert Frost, lectures and interviews with such people as from Ralph Nader, Aldous Huxley, Michel Foucault, Umberto Eco, Robert Oppenheimer, Malcolm X, and more.

Oxford Internet Institute: Webcast

<http://webcast.oii.ox.ac.uk/?view=Default>

Description from site: “Welcome to the OII webcast website - containing live and on-demand Webcasts of prominent speakers, events and conferences held by and in collaboration with the Oxford Internet Institute.”

Princeton Event Streaming WebMedia

<http://www.princeton.edu/WebMedia/lectures/>

Public lecture series and special events from a variety of departments on campus.

Radcliffe Institute for Advanced Study –Events on Video

(Harvard University)

<http://www.radcliffe.edu/events/video.php>

Description from the site: “The following is a selection of Radcliffe Institute conferences, lectures, and special projects available in streaming video and/or audio... The mission of the Radcliffe Institute is to create an academic community where individuals can pursue advanced work in any of the academic disciplines, professions, or creative arts. Within that broad purpose, it sustains a continuing commitment to the study of women, gender, and society.”

Research Channel

<http://www.researchchannel.org/prog/>

Description from site: “ResearchChannel is a nonprofit media and technology organization that connects a global audience with the research and academic institutions whose developments, insights and discoveries affect our lives and futures. Programs are shared in their original form, unmediated and without interruption. Today, more than 50 institutions participate as members and affiliates, and that number continues to grow.”

- Includes over 3,000 video lectures and programs in the Arts and Humanities, Business and Economics, Computer Science and Engineering, Health and Medicine, K-12 and Education, Sciences, and Social Sciences

TedTalks

<http://www.ted.com/tedtalks/>

Description from the site: “Each year, TED hosts some of the world's most fascinating people: Trusted voices and convention-breaking mavericks, icons and geniuses... It brings together more than 1,000 thought-leaders, movers and shakers in Monterey, California every year for four days of learning, laughter and inspiration. They hear not just the latest ideas in Technology, Entertainment and Design, but also Business, Science and The Arts...in fact any subject area offering something fresh and important.”

- Each week new video lectures from this conference are released. Here from speakers such as Malcolm Gladwell, Steven Levitt, Richard Dawkins, Eve Ensler, Daniel Dennett, Al Gore, Helen Fisher, and many more!

UC Berkeley WebCasts

<http://webcast.berkeley.edu/>

Includes Berkeley course webcasts and special lectures and events.

UCTV

(University of California)

<http://www.uctv.tv/>

Description from site: “UCTV delivers documentaries, faculty lectures, cutting-edge research symposiums and artistic performances from each of the ten UC campuses: UC Berkeley, UC Davis, UC Irvine, UC Los Angeles, UC Merced, UC Riverside, UC San Diego, UC San Francisco, UC Santa Barbara, and UC Santa Cruz, as well as UC's national laboratories and affiliated institutions.”

The University Channel

<http://uc.princeton.edu/>

Description from the site: “The University Channel makes videos of academic lectures and events from all over the world available to the public. It is a place where academics can air their ideas and present research in a full-length, uncut format. Contributors with greater video production capabilities can submit original productions.”

Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs -WebCasts

<http://www.wws.princeton.edu/events/webmedia.html>

A selection of conferences, guest lectures, and symposia from the School of Public and International Affairs.

World Lecture Hall (University of Texas)

<http://web.austin.utexas.edu/wlh/index.cfm>

Description from site: "World Lecture Hall publishes links to pages created by faculty worldwide who are using the Web to deliver course materials in any language."

- Advanced search feature allows you to limit by type of material including video
- Related: Syllabus Finder at <http://chnm.gmu.edu/tools/syllabi/> from the Center for History and New Media

SUBJECT SPECIFIC MULTIMEDIA

>>Humanities

Classical Language Instruction Project (Princeton University)

<http://www.princeton.edu/~clip/>

Description from site: "This site contains examples of Greek and Latin prose and poetry texts, read by various scholars and in different styles. It is designed to help students of classical languages to acquaint themselves with the sound of Greek and Latin and to practice their reading skills."

Graffiti Research Lab

<http://graffitiresearchlab.com/>

Description from site: "Dedicated to outfitting graffiti artists with open source technologies for urban communication."

The Authentic History Center: Primary Sources from American Popular Culture

<http://www.authentichistory.com/>

Description from site: "The Authentic History Center is comprised of images of artifacts and historic sounds from American popular culture... A large audio collection of speeches and news broadcasts are presented for students to experience a level of authenticity apart from that of a written source only. The digital archive also serves as a repository of sources collected for a certain time period or event "thus far"."

In Our Time

(BBC Radio 4)

<http://www.bbc.co.uk/radio4/history/inourtime/inourtime.shtml>

Description from site: "Melvynn Bragg and guest explore the history of ideas" (weekly show, podcasts available for download or listen online)

Philosophy Talk

(Stanford University)

<http://www.philosophytalk.org/>

Description from site: "Philosophy Talk is a weekly, one-hour radio series produced by Ben Manilla. The hosts' down-to-earth and no-nonsense approach brings the richness of philosophic thought to everyday subjects. Topics are lofty (Truth, Beauty, Justice), arresting (Terrorism, Intelligent Design, Suicide), and engaging (Baseball, Love, Happiness). This is not a lecture or a college course, it's philosophy in action! Philosophy Talk is a fun opportunity to explore issues of importance to your audience in a thoughtful, friendly fashion, where thinking is encouraged."

Princeton Online Poetry Project

<http://www.princeton.edu/online-poetry>

Description from site: "The Princeton Online Poetry Project is a collection of poems in various languages, synchronized to digital audio recordings of the texts, read by native speakers. Users of this interactive courseware can enhance their learning experience by accessing “pop-up” links with definitional, biographical, and/or philological data.”

- Includes Arabic, Russian, French, Italian, and Spanish

>>Sciences

Google Tech Talks

(Google)

<http://video.google.com/videosearch?q=Google+techtalks>

Regularly scheduled talks by Google staff and invited guests on a wide range of topics.

IT Conversations

<http://www.itconversations.com/>

Description from site: “IT Conversations is a listener- and underwriter-supported network of high-end tech talk-radio interviews, discussions and presentations from major conferences delivered live and on-demand via the Internet.”

Molecular Expressions: Exploring the World of Optics and Microscopy

<http://micro.magnet.fsu.edu/index.html>

Description from site: “Welcome to the Molecular Expressions website featuring our acclaimed photo galleries that explore the fascinating world of optical microscopy. We are going where no microscope has gone before by offering one of the Web's largest collections of color photographs taken through an optical microscope (commonly referred to as "photo-micro-graphs"). Visit our Photo Gallery for an introductory selection of images covering just about everything from beer and ice cream to integrated circuits and ceramic superconductors. These photographs are available for licensing to commercial, private, and non-profit institutions.”

Richard Feynman: Douglas Robb Memorial Lectures

(Vega Science)

<http://www.vega.org.uk/video/subseries/8>

Description from site: “Vega is a not for profit trust which broadcasts science programmes for free over the internet. Our programmes feature experts in science and engineering and many are or have in the past been broadcast on mainstream television.”

- In addition to the Feynman lectures see also the link to their Vega Science Lectures which lead to other series from the Royal Society (public lectures) and more.

Rockefeller University Media Collection

<http://www.rockefeller.edu/interactive/>

This site has a collection of short multimedia presentations that explore different internal workings of the body's cells (e.g., watch how “dendritic cells serve the body's immune system as sentinels.”)

Three Lectures by Hans Bethe

(Cornell University)

<http://bethe.cornell.edu/>

Description from site: IN 1999, legendary theoretical physicist Hans Bethe delivered three lectures on quantum theory to his neighbors at the Kendal of Ithaca retirement community (near Cornell University). Given by Professor Bethe at age 93, the lectures are presented here as QuickTime videos synchronized with slides of his talking points and archival material. Intended for an audience of Professor Bethe's neighbors at Kendal, the lectures hold appeal for experts and non-experts alike. The presentation makes use of limited mathematics while focusing on the personal and historical perspectives of one of the principal architects of quantum theory whose career in physics spans 75 years.

Visual Calculus

(Lawrence S. Husch, Professor of Mathematics, U of Tennessee)

<http://archives.math.utk.edu/visual.calculus/>

Description from site: "Originally, this collection was designed for instructors to give some ideas how technology, in particular, computers, can be used in the teaching of calculus. Detailed instructions on implementing these ideas with various public domain, shareware and commercial software packages are provided. The collection has been expanded to include tutorials, interactive modules (LiveMath, Java, and Javascript) which can be used by either students or faculty and includes detailed instructions for TI-85 and TI-86 graphing calculators. As an additional aid for students, modules containing quizzes and drill problems have also been added."

>>Social Sciences

American Rhetoric Online Speech Bank

<http://www.americanrhetoric.com/speechbank.htm>

Description from the site: "The Online Speech Bank is an index to and growing database of 5000+ full text, audio and video (streaming) versions of public speeches, sermons, legal proceedings, lectures, debates, interviews, other recorded media events, and a declaration or two."

Book TV

(CSPAN)

<http://www.booktv.org>

Description from site: "Each weekend, Book TV features 48 hours of nonfiction books from 8am Saturday to 8am Monday. This web site will enhance information on those books, provide an opportunity to watch or listen to programs you might have missed, and provide additional information not available on the network...additional information will include bestseller lists from around the country, opportunities to chat with authors and other readers, information on programming up to four weeks in advance, and background information on authors and publishers."

Center for the Study of Political Graphics

<http://www.politicalgraphics.org/home.html>

Description from the site: "With over 50,000 posters, the CSPG archive is the largest collection of Post World War II graphics in the United States. The Center for the Study of Political Graphics collects, preserves, and exhibits posters relating to historical and contemporary movements for social change. Through its varied programs, CSPG is reclaiming the power of art to inspire people to action."

History and Politics Out Loud (HPOL)

(University of Michigan)

<http://www.hpoul.org/>

Description from the site: "HPOL is a searchable multimedia database documenting and delivering authoritative audio relevant to American history and politics. This project is supported by a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities Teaching With Technology Program in collaboration with Michigan State University and the National Gallery of the Spoken Word. Other website support from Northwestern University Library, School of Communication, Office of the Provost, Weinberg College of Arts and Sciences, and the Department of Political Science."

Merchants of Cool

(Frontline, PBS)

<http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/shows/cool/view/>

Description from site: "They are the merchants of cool: creators and sellers of popular culture who have made teenagers the hottest consumer demographic in America. But are they simply reflecting teen desires or have they begun to manufacture those desires in a bid to secure this lucrative market? And have they gone too far in their attempts to reach the hearts--and wallets--of America's youth?"

- Other Frontline programs on various current issues (multimedia):

<http://www.pbs.org/wgbh/pages/frontline/>

Radio Economics

(University of SC)

<http://radioeconomics.com/>

Description from site: “Radio Economics is an economics podcast which features recorded audio interviews and discussions with economists worldwide. It is produced by Dr. James Reese, an economics professor at the University of South Carolina Upstate. The full range of economics subjects are covered and extended interviews with world famous intellectuals, discuss subjects at length.”

Social Activism Sound Recording Project: The Free Speech Movement & Its Legacy

(Media Resources Center, Moffat Library, UC –Berkeley)

<http://www.lib.berkeley.edu/MRC/pacificafsm.html>

Description from the site: “The UC Berkeley Social Activism Sound Recording Project is a partnership between the UC Berkeley Library, the Pacifica Foundation, and other private and institutional sources. The intent of the project is to gather, catalog, and make accessible primary source media resources related to social activism and activist movements in California in the 1960's and 1970's. Some recordings have been slightly edited for purposes of sound quality and continuity.”

Stanford Graduate School of Business –Audio & Video

http://www.gsb.stanford.edu/news/av_speakers.html

Lectures from various speakers on the topics of leadership, innovation, gender and diversity issues, teams and networks, globalization, social responsibility and the environment, and more.

GENERAL MULTIMEDIA

American Memory

(Library of Congress)

<http://lcweb2.loc.gov/ammem/index.html>

From the site: “American Memory provides free and open access through the Internet to written and spoken words, sound recordings, still and moving images, prints, maps, and sheet music that document the American experience. It is a digital record of American history and creativity. These materials, from the collections of the Library of Congress and other institutions, chronicle historical events, people, places, and ideas that continue to shape America, serving the public as a resource for education and lifelong learning.”

Exploratorium Webcast Archive

<http://www.exploratorium.edu/webcasts/archive.html>

Description from site: “Online since 1993, the Exploratorium was one of the first science museums to build a site on the World Wide Web.”

Flickr

<http://www.flickr.com>

<http://www.flickr.com/search>

<http://www.flickr.com/search/advanced/>

<http://www.flickr.com/creativecommons/>

<http://krazydad.com/colpickr/> (Flickr search by colour)

Google Map Application Ideas

- Top Business Schools in the US on Google Maps
http://www.mibazaar.com/education/business_school.html
- Top Engineering Schools in the US on Google Maps
http://www.mibazaar.com/education/medical_school.html
- Top Medical Schools in the US on Google Maps
http://www.mibazaar.com/education/medical_school.html

Information Aesthetics

<http://infosthetics.com/>

Description from site: "Data visualization and visual culture."

Instructables

<http://www.instructables.com/>

Description from site: "Instructables is a website bought to you by the partners at www.squid-labs.com. We make a lot of stuff, for business, and for pleasure. We've been looking for a long time for a convenient system for documenting our how-to projects, and the things we make, but it simply didn't exist. We decided we'd have to develop it ourselves, and here it is, it will evolve as we grow to meet our own rigorous demands, and those of our users. Principal in our demands is convenience - it should take less time to document a project than it did to build it."

Internet Archive

<http://www.archive.org/index.php>

The archive includes various collections of moving images, audio, and software resources in addition to archived websites and texts. Includes such things as open source movies, public domain feature films, vintage cartoons, universal newsreels (pre-TV era), presidential recordings, 78rpms, LibriVox (free audio books from the public domain), Naropa lectures (e.g., hear Allen Ginsberg and William S. Burroughs in class).

Learn Out Loud: Free Audio & Video

<http://www.learnoutloud.com/Free-Audio-Video#directory>

Description from site: "Our mission is simple. We want to promote the use of audio and video educational material for personal and professional development."

The Mercury Theatre on the Air

<http://www.mercurytheatre.info/>

Description from the site: "The finest radio drama of the 1930's was The Mercury Theatre on the Air, a show featuring the acclaimed New York drama company founded by Orson Welles and John Houseman. The show is famous for its notorious War of the Worlds broadcast, but the other shows in the series are relatively unknown. This site has many of the surviving shows, and will eventually have all of them."

The Open Video Project (UNC-Chapel Hill)

<http://www.open-video.org/index.php>

Description from site: "The purpose of the Open Video Project is to collect and make available a repository of digitized video content for the digital video, multimedia retrieval, digital library, and other research communities."

Slideroll

<http://www.slideroll.com/>

Description from site: "Slideroll is a photo slideshow maker that you can use to create dazzling slide shows with your digital pictures. Upload your photos to Slideroll and publish slide shows on the internet, share them, and email them to friends."